

Albert Dorofeev

Albert Dorofeev has both engineering and business education. He worked as a telecommunications engineer, research engineer, development engineer, spent a couple of years in marketing and currently heads the European office of Sony Secure Communications Europe. Most of the work is concentrated around smart card line of products of Sony Corporation and Common Criteria based certifications.